Practise this dialogue with a classmate.

Hurry up Ella. Time to go now.

That's what I mean. No time to lose.

Yes, I know that very well.

You were late three times this week.

Your teacher called me yesterday.

She only wants you to be on time.

You have four minutes left.

Why? Are you going to be late again?

It's only twenty-five past eight.

But dad! We live next to the school.

I can be there in twenty seconds.

How do you know?

I really think she doesn't like me.

Just kidding dad. Time to go then.

You know what? I will ask her to call you.

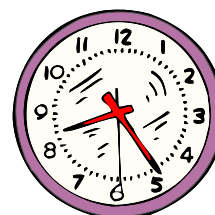

To tell you that I made it in time today!

Ask a classmate the following questions.

- What time does your school start?
My school starts at half past eight/8.30 a.m.
- Have you ever been late for school?
No, I haven't. Yes, I have, because I overslept.
- What time does your school finish?
It finishes at half past two/2.30 p.m./three/3 p.m.
- What time do you usually get up?
I usually get up at seven/7 a.m./half past seven/7.30 a.m.
- Do you have an alarm clock?
No, I don't. / Yes, I do. I have a black/white/red alarm clock.
- How do you wake up every morning?
My mother/father always wakes me up.
- Is there a school bell?
No, there isn't. / Yes, there is. It rings at the start/end of the day.
- Would you like to live next to your school?
No, I wouldn't. / Yes, I would have more time to sleep/would never be late.

Useful words and phrases.

- lose verliezen
- next to naast
- call bellen
- in time op tijd
- I'm just kidding ik maak maar een grapje
